PEAD! READ!—LET ALL TO WHOM MONEY IS OF account read this.—The undersigned, being in possession of a number of rare and valuable receipts, for the most part utterly unknown in this country, is willing to divulge them to the public. A thorough knowledge of these is, to ladies and gentlemen, of far more value than all the rouges, commeties, and hair dyes in existence here, as it enables them to apply the true remidies to each imperfection. To those especially who are in moderate circumstances or on-agod in agricultural pursuits these receipts are of vast importance. By practicing upon the principals laid down, the fermer may soon secure a competency, aside from what they may obtain in their regular business; the latter may save handreds of dollars annually, and both may so do with little or no inconvenience. Ye who believes not, try, and be assured you will reserve the value of your money tenfold. The above invaluable receipts will be seated by return mail to
